BIOGRAPHY

Kate Sanchez is a proud mother, small businesswoman, former non-profit executive, proven advocate against tax increases and for improving education, parental rights, and choice in our schools, as well as solutions to homelessness, and a strong pro-public safety ally.

Kate has worked for numerous lawmakers and began her career working for the Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, former Congressman Ed Royce.

​

Next, Kate joined the California Policy Center, which explored nonpartisan, common-sense education reform and solutions to California's current public-school crisis.

As a working mother, this was an issue of top importance to Kate. Every child deserves access to quality education of their parents' choosing, and zip code should not determine opportunity.

Additionally, she worked on consequential projects such as TransparentCalifornia.com. While at California Policy Center, Kate successfully organized and launched the first Children's Business Fair, which brought together young entrepreneurs and community stakeholders from across the state to support future business leaders.

​

As the former Executive Director of the California Women's Leadership Association (CWLA), Kate collaborated with women in leadership positions across California to further champion and support women's involvement in public policy discussion and advocacy.
